

INSTITUTE TO STUDY
ECONOMIC FACTS

Carnegie Corporation Will Finance New Undertaking for Ten Years.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 21.—Plans for the establishment of an institute of economics to collect facts relating to economic questions and distribute them to the public in an understandable form were announced today by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

The institute will be governed by a board of fifteen trustees, and will be administered "without regard to the special interests of any group in the body politic, whether political, social or economic," according to the announcement.

The Carnegie Corporation has agreed to finance the undertaking for a period of ten years at a total cost of $1,500,000, payable to the institute's trustees at the rate of $500,000 annually for the first five years, $150,000 a year for the next three years and $100,000 each for the last two years. The corporation will have no control over these funds after they are paid to the institute.

Board to Meet Here.
The first board of trustees has been selected and will meet in Washington today for the purpose of effecting preliminary organization.

Those constituting the board include: Arthur T. Hadley, president emeritus of Yale University; A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Dr. Charles D. Walcott of Smithsonian Institution; Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois; Paul Warburg of New York; John R. Payne, chairman of the central committee, American Red Cross; Robert S. Brookings, St. Louis; Charles L. Hutchinson, Chicago; David F. Houston, New York; James J. Storrow, Boston; Bolton Smith, Memphis, Tenn.; Whiteford R. Cole, Nashville, Tenn.; Samuel Mather, Cleveland, and George Sutherland, Salt Lake City.

The trustees are to appoint a staff and to proceed with the development of the institute.

Great Benefit Seen.
The announcement said that the trustees of the Carnegie Corporation have come to the conclusion that the service of such an institution "would go far to make available to the people of the United States those fundamental economic facts which so closely concern the industrial life of the industrial nations."

It added that the trustees "realize that the institution so established must have for its sole purpose the ascertainment of the facts and it must be conducted in the interests of no party or group or faction. If the truth is ascertained and clearly and simply stated, we must believe that it will make its own way. If it cannot, the world's situation is hopeless."

With the completion of the last payment at the end of ten years the corporation specifies that it assumes no further obligation to support or maintain the institute.
